

A powerful combination of quality products, creative marketing and business acumen has ensured our position at the forefront of the UK hair care industry. Responsibility, pace and potential in abundance are central to these positions where the scope for talented individuals who possess that certain entrepreneurial style in considerable.

if you think you have the style...

regional sales manager

c£30-35k (excellent OTE)
car + extensive benefits package + share options

London & South East (relocation available)

Enthusiasm, self motivation and a natural flair for leadership are essential parts of your personality.

You're already successful, maybe as a team leader, or people manager, but need something bigger. With style. And a challenge.

Dynamic and adaptable as a person you will want to be strategic as well as a leader and key player in a fast paced fashion-led market.

This role is about constant evolution, both people and products. It is about motivation; training and managing a team of vibrant, focussed salespeople. Sure all the commercial skills are needed, but it is about passion and that's what drives you.

Whatever your sales background, if your record of success is strong and your personality needs somewhere creative to flourish, we want to talk to you.

can you cut it?

territory managers x3

£18-20k basic (average OTE £30k)
car + extensive benefits package + share options

Norfolk/Suffolk • Northern Home Counties •
Staffordshire/S. Midlands

You're a stylish dresser, a quick thinker and instinctively know what makes people tick. Sure, you've got personality – but you've also got the commercial nous to back it up. You know what's hot and what's not. And when it comes to clients you're streets ahead. Which is where you'll find us. We're a business in growth mode – colourful and creative. Like our people.

Our products are used by some of the best stylists and salons in the business – and you'll keep it that way. You'll look after an exciting portfolio of salons, large and small. You'll be making regular visits, presenting successful current products and introducing the new season's lines.

Ours is not a hard sell. It's all about the 'look good – feel good' experience. You'll build relationships with salon managers and staff, becoming a regular face and advisor. As your relationships grow so will your sales. You can use your passion, drive and expertise to influence promotions, window displays and new salons in your area.

You'll be educated to A level standard and have some face to face sales experience, from any background. A sense of humour is as vital as punctuality and planning!

If this is you, email your cv to Julie Carmichael at juliec@pursuitnha.com.